

Leo Cloney - M2

During the pandemic I started making agricultural drone videos for YouTube. I discovered that I really enjoyed making these videos as I am very passionate about farming and machinery and I am also very passionate about photography and videography.

Before this I always wanted to make videos like the ones I saw on YouTube but I didn't get the opportunity to make them as a lot of agricultural work takes place during school terms. I also didn't have the gear or experience to create them.

I have now invested in better gear and better software to produce content on par with film grade content. I have submitted a link to one of my latest videos at the end of this document and, also in the google classroom assignment.
